Stride with Pride

The City of Brotherly Love is celebrating Pride with unique events and powerful initiatives all month long. MOLLY GIVEN

Philadelphia was one of the first cities in the country to recognize Pride and the LGBTQ movement, and although the important celebration has gone through its ebbs and flows throughout the years in Philly, joining in on observing the movement throughout the month of June still marks an important occasion in the City of Brotherly Love.

Sofitel Philadelphia
Sofitel Philadelphia is celebrating Pride all month long with a series of unique events, colorful decor, initiatives and fun celebrations. The lobby of the luxurious hotel will be transformed to the Pride Month "LGBTQ Hall of Flags" (there will be six different flags showcasing the local gay community flying inside the lobby), and for the first time ever Sofitel will also fly a giant Philadelphia Pride Flag on the outside of the hotel. Philadelphians can head to the Rittenhouse-area hotel on June 11 to celebrate the flying of the giant Pride rainbow flag, and it will remain flying high outside of the hotel throughout the month of June. As for events, Sofitel has plenty of colorful and exciting happenings coming up this month. On June 21 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., Sofitel Philadelphia's annual Fête de La Musique Block Party (free) will be in full swing. The extravaganza will feature drag performances, music, light bites and plenty of cocktails. Then, a few days later on June 28 join in on the hotel's opening art reception (free) for "French Kiss" by Janice Telstar. From 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Philadelphians can view Telstar's incredible photos for her summer exhibition displayed in the lobby and also enjoy complimentary bites and cocktail samples from Sofitel's new summer menu. Be sure to mark your calendars for this Saturday, June 8 and next Saturday, June 15 as well. Sofitel will be debuting their Drag Tea ($40-$50) featuring Brittany Lynn's Drag Mafia. The fabulous events will be held inside Chez Colette Brasserie from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and will feature a mouth-watering menu including scones, tea sandwiches, pastries, and Palais Des Thés (a selection of nine different teas), plus your choice of champagne, mimosa or Bloody Mary. According to the official release, during the entire month of June, and throughout the rest of 2019, Sofitel Philadelphia will donate one dollar per each banquet menu item (designated on the menu with the Attic logo) to the Attic Youth Center. Sofitel Philadelphia will also donate one dollar from every Liberté cocktail sold in the Liberté Lounge to Attic during Pride Month. All funds will support programs for local LGBTQ youth. 120 S. 17th St., sofitel-philadelphia.com

Museum of the American Revolution

Join the MOAR in celebrating Pride month on June 18 (5 p.m.-8 p.m.) at their after-hours event, "Pride on Paper." According to the release, the event is part of the Museum's series of monthly History After Hours events which feature extended evening hours, special themed programs, happy hour food and drink specials in Cross Keys Café, and full access to the Museum's exhibits. While at the event, Philadelphians can explore the museum's newest exhibit "A New Constellation: A Collection of Historic 13-Star Flags" (on display from June 14-July 14) and discover how a flag with rainbow colors was first proposed by Founding Father Thomas Paine to signify neutral ships. Guests can also make their own colorful flags while in the exhibit. Be sure to test your LGBTQ history knowledge in a round of trivia with "The Quizzing Glass" from 5-7 p.m. in the Cross Keys Café, join in on learning how to use traditional block printing techniques with the Fabric Workshop and Museum, meet representatives from the Attic Youth Center in the Museum's first-floor rotunda and more while at the event as well. Tickets are $10 and can be bought online or at the door. 101 S 3rd St., amrevmuseum.org

Philly Pride Parade and Festival

This weekend is surely going to be one for the books, the Philly Pride Parade and Festival is kicking off and this year is going to be bigger and more extravagant than ever. On Friday, June 7th start the weekend festivities with the high-energy Pride kick-off party at 12th and Locust Streets from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.. The party will feature plenty of enticing bites, refreshing drinks and exciting entertainment. Then on Sunday, June 9th head to the Philly Pride Parade at 11 am to experience one of the most colorful events of the year. The parade kicks off in the heart of the Gayborhood at 13th and Locust and proceeds along a 1.5 mile route through Center City and Philadelphia's historic district. The parade concludes at the Great Plaza of Penn's Landing, where the Pride Festival will be taking place once the procession ends. According to Philadelphia Gay News, the Festival will feature a plethora of talented and popular performers including comedian Fortune Feimster, trans actor Ian Harvie, Broadway star Frenchie Davis, singer Dawn Robinson and well-known Cher impersonator Steven Andrade. Philadelphians can purchase discounted wristbands for the Pride Festival at the kick-off party on Friday for $10, wristbands will be $15 at the door on Sunday.

Jet Wine Bar

The popular South Street hotspot will be featuring a Rainbow Wine Flight to celebrate Pride throughout the month of June. The Rainbow Wine Flight features six different colored wines, each one was hand-selected and color-coordinated by General Manager, Nick Baitzel, to create the perfect wine rainbow. The Red is a Farmhouse Red Blend from Cline Cellars in California; Orange is a Semillon-Chardonnay from Si Vintners in Australia; Yellow is a Chenin Blanc from Radley & Finch in South Africa; Pink is a Vinho Verde Rosé from Escudo Real in Portugal; Blue is a Sparkling from Blanc de Bleu in California, and the Purple is a Shiraz-Grenache from the Wine Men of Gotham in Australia. The flight can be enjoyed for $25. 1525 South St., jetwinebar.com

Tuna Bar

Tuna Bar is featuring a special Pride-themed cocktail on their menu during the month of June. The rainbow Pride cocktail is made with Effen Vodka, Dragonfruit and lime, and the colorful concoction certainly tastes as good as it looks. Pair the refreshing libation with one of Tuna Bar's tasty menu items such as their tuna tartare, pork gyoza, Wagyu beef spring rolls, seared tuna salad, lobster fried rice, delicious assortment of sashimi and sushi rolls, raw bar and more. 205 Race St., tunabar.com

Cake Life Bake Shop

The Fishtown bakery is celebrating Pride with a sweet and colorful creation. Throughout the month of June Philadelphians can purchase Cake Life's rainbow heart cookies to celebrate LGBTQ Pride. $1 from each cookie will be going to The Attic Youth Center who, according to their website, creates opportunities for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Questioning (LGBTQ) youth to develop into healthy, independent, civic-minded adults within a safe and supportive community, and

Kin Boutique

Be sure to stop by Kin Boutique to take advantage of their Pride Month specials this weekend. Where to celebrate Pride in the Gayborhood

Eat, dance and drink all weekend long.
MADLINE PRESLAND

The Gayborhood has a vibrant energy all year round, but Pride weekend is the neighborhood's time to really shine.

Duross & Langel
Pride weekend requires a little self-care. Stop by Duross & Langel to pick up all-natural bath bombs, face masks and more. All their products are made on-site, and you'll find fun seasonal items like watermelon-scented and shaped soap. 117 S. 13th St., durossandlangel.com

Verde
If you want to shop for gorgeous jewelry and clothing while inhaling the smell of chocolate, head to Verde. The shop shares their space with the kitchen that produces Marcie Blaine Artisanal Chocolates. Pick up a box of flavors, like the French Farmer with elderflower, to share with friends or just for you. 108 S. 13th St., verdephiladelphia.com

Bud & Marilyn's
The restaurant combines mid-century modern decor, delicious cocktails and a menu of American classics. Go for brunch to try a shrimp po boy eggs Benedict or their take on the classic biscuits and gravy. Don't miss out on ordering a round of cocktails, like the boozy Orange Crush Gritty Slush (named after the beloved Flyers mascot and complete with googly eyes) or a classic refreshing daiquiri. 1234 Locust St., budandmarilyns.com

Charlie Was a Sinner
Go behind the curtain for cocktails and an impressive vegan menu in the sultry restaurant. Their dinner menu includes treats that somehow still feel healthy, including the zucchini "crabcake" slider and their housemade ricotta. 131 S. 13th St., charliewasasinner.com

Tavern on Camac
The bilevel piano bar

tucked away on Camac Street is a staple for cocktails and dancing, as well as a dining room and Ascend nightclub upstairs. Start with line dancing and special guest DJ Jimmy DePre on Friday, attend a Pink and Gold party on Saturday and a Spill the Tea dance party on Sunday for Pride Day. 243 S. Camac St., tavernoncamac.com

Woody's
You can party inside the club and out in the street thanks to Woody's' open windows. In addition to five dance rooms in the main club, check out their sister cocktail bar Rosewood (1302 Walnut St.) or technicolor lounge Glocal on the corner of 13th and Walnut streets. 202 S. 13th St., woodysbars.com

Franky Bradley's
The eclectic restaurant and club has a lineup of events for Pride weekend, including a cabaret by legendary Philly drag chanteuse Martha Graham Cracker in the upstairs lounge on Friday night. Make your way to the dance floor, or enjoy a few drinks and snacks in the swanky, dimly lit bar. 1320 Chancellor St., franky-bradleys.com

Tabu
With a sports bar on the ground floor and a luxe lounge on the upper level, Tabu is a destination for dancing and entertainment during Pride. Don't miss their monthly queer SWAY Dance Party that's going all out for Pride on Saturday night with gogo dancers and a pre-party drag show. 254 S. 12 St., tabuphilly.com

Voyeur Nightclub
If there's a time you should definitely stay out late and head to the after-hours bar, it's Pride weekend. Keep Saturday night going until 6 a.m. Sunday morning during Voyeur's extended hours for Pride. The club has options for EDM and hip-hop lovers, as well as a room just for party and pop hits. 1221 St. James St., voyeurnightclub.com

Billy Porter on living life out loud

How the "Pose" actor found acceptance and purpose through a life of "service." PAT KING

Billy Porter is on his lunch break during what many would consider a late dinner. Members of the press were lucky to gain an audience with the esteemed actor in between his shooting schedule for the second season of FX's acclaimed show "Pose," which focuses on the New York City ball culture of the 1980s. Porter has gained wide praise for his role as Pray Tell, the revered emcee of the scene, and his larger-than-life personality can be felt as he is eating his catered meal on a Bronx soundstage.

The roundtable conversation was meant to focus on the premiere of the new season on Tuesday, June 11 (more on that next week), but eventually circled around to Porter's recent universal acceptance after more than 25 years in show business. Much like the characters on the show, Porter, 49, has had to fight through prejudices in Hollywood surrounding race, sex and gender in order to have the world catch up with his authentic self.

"The thing I love about this show is that it really speaks to the idea that joy is a choice," says Porter. "That life is a choice. You can choose it or not. When you watch people in the depth of the worst kind of circumstances possible, choose life anyway. That's what this show is about. We're choosing life anyway when everybody is telling us that we don't even de-

"We teach people how to treat us. If I don't treat myself right, nobody else knows how."

serve to exist on this planet — and we're living through a plague!

"As the world moves forward and we win some rights and things get better, it gets more and more difficult to explain to people the disparity is still too much.

"I could entertain you, but the at-what-cost part of the story, which is my human story, which is the third-dimension part of my humanity, is shut out. 'We don't want to hear that, just come and entertain me. You black people, you gay people, you whatever.' It's like, you can come and sing for me, but you can't stay at the same hotel."

While it has been a long road for Porter, he is certainly not turning back now.

"It's interesting for me because I was presented, in my hero's journey, with it 20 years ago: I could stay on this road and be the clown and the sideman and do the same s—t or I could honor myself, be completely authentic. I chose my authenticity over any version of what the possibility of fame could look like inauthentically. I was watching Oprah, actually, as I am wont to do. It was her, Maya Angelou and, I think, Iyanla Vanzant, and they were talking about service. When your intention is service, everything else will work itself out. Here I am in show business, and I'm like, how can I be of service to something other than my own ego or my bank account in an industry that is inherently narcissistic? It's like you need to have some version of ego to simply survive.

"And the ton of bricks hit me, oh right, everybody is trying to tell me that I can't do anything unless I act like a straight man. By acting like a straight man, it's their version of what a straight man means. It's their version of performed masculinity put on me. It's actually not about masculinity. It's about, 'We know you're gay, so you will never be able to live up to what our version of masculinity is.'

"From the minute that I could comprehend thought, my masculinity was in question. They sent me to the school psychologist every day when I was 5 years old. Every day after school, to talk. About what? What are we talking about? From the minute I could comprehend anything, I needed to be 'fixed.' It was 20 years ago when I said, 'I actually don't need to be fixed.' I'm fine just as I am. I don't know how to live that way, because everything up until now has told me otherwise. I'm still going to have to fight that every single day of my life. I'm prepared to do so because service is showing up for myself. Being authentic for myself first. We teach people how to treat us. If I don't treat myself right, nobody else knows how. Now everybody else knows how because for 20 years I've been showing people how to do it while showing myself."

ARTS & CULTURE

West Park Arts Festival

This free all-day event is perfect for the whole family. The extravaganza will feature local craft vendors, art activities for the kiddos, food trucks serving up delicious bites, historic trolley tours and much more. This year will also feature the first-ever "FunkFest at the West Park Arts Fest," an all-funk music lineup curated by local artist Badd Kittie and a parade led by Spiral Q, the West Philadelphia-based puppet troupe. June 8, 1 p.m.-6 p.m., West Fairmount Park, 4160 Horticultural Dr., Philadelphia, free, myphillypark.org

Odumbe Festival

The largest African American street festival in the country is back for another exciting year. The Odumbe Festival stretches over 15 blocks in the city and features an eclectic mix of vendors, entertainment and music. Vendors will be showcasing items and treats from many African nations, the Caribbean and Brazil. June 9, 10 a.m.-8 p.m., South St. and Grays Ferry Ave., free, odumbefestival.org

FAMILY

6th Annual Chestnut Hill Petapalooza

This event is perfect for all Philadelphians and their furry friends. Bring your pets to this exciting extravaganza where they can get their paw "read" to see into their future, meet baby animals (such as lambs, goats, hedgehogs and yaks), get their picture painted from an animal caricaturist, participate in a "yappy hour" and more. There will also be pet rescue organizations on site with adorable pets ready to be adopted. June 7, 5 p.m.-8 p.m., Germantown and East Highland Ave., Chestnut Hill, free, chestnuthillpa.com

"City of Angels"

Join 11th Hour Theatre Company this weekend for this three-show concert featuring a cast of musical theatre stars and the 17-piece Big Band from The Summer Club. According to the release, this thrilling film-noir themed musical weaves together two plots, the "real" world of Stine, a celebrated author writing his first screenplay, and his steamy, mysterious, fictional detective, Stone. June 7-8, times vary, Suzanne Roberts Theatre, 480 S. Broad St., $19-$39, 11thhourtheatre-company.org

"FRANK The Man The Music Starring Bob Anderson"

If you are a Frank Sinatra fan and never got to see the legend perform live, here is your chance. Bob Anderson was with Sinatra, Martin, Davis Jr. Newton, Carson, Merv Griffin and others in their heyday, and is a master at capturing the essence of Ol' Blue Eyes himself. This exciting concert will feel completely real and will feature some of the greatest hits of Sinatra being performed by Anderson and more.

50 Years later, the Stonewall Inn is spreading Pride all over the globe

On the 50th anniversary of Pride, the Stonewall Inn is still fighting for change all over the world.

PAT KING

It was a rainy day in New York City as legendary bar and ground zero for Global Pride the Stonewall Inn celebrated its 50th anniversary of Pride with a kick-off party. The night was a fundraiser for the bar's official foundation, the Stonewall Inn Gives Back Initiative (SIGBI), in order to raise resources for activist groups in mostly-rural areas to help fund their efforts to effect meaningful change on the ground.

The energy in the packed bar was palpable as people were drinking and celebrating this special evening in the place where those riots of the Stonewall Uprising occurred half a century ago. Patrons and friends packed the upstairs room as members of SIGBI presented a grant to Brandon West, a young activist from Southeast Kansas whose organization, Project Q&A, had helped to bring visibility to the LGBTQ community in his rural area.

"All across our nation, in towns large and small, there are members of our rainbow family living in fear of being fired from their jobs, denied housing, and being shunned from their communities," said West, addressing the crowd. "Living in rural communities can be a scary and isolating place for LGBTQ people. Yet even in small towns, there are a large number of LGBTQ individuals being supported by an even larger number of allies. In 2016, I started an organization called Project Q&A with a mission to raise awareness for the LGBTQ community through education, empowerment and visibility. Connecting our sizable gay community with our allies, we worked to ensure that our small rural area isn't so isolated."

After receiving help from SIGBI in 2017, Project Q&A was able to host the very first Pride in Southeast Kansas. In offering this kind of meaningful support, the Stonewall legacy is being spread all over the globe to even the most unlikely of places — which is, after all, the battle that needs to be fought.

"The whole purpose of this is to keep the Stonewall legacy alive and use that global name across the country and use it in those places where they really need it where they still have the social stigma that they face every day," explains Stacy Letz, co-owner of the Stonewall Inn and co-founder of SIGBI.

You can feel the tremendous weight and importance standing in the room. But more than that, the energy in the Stonewall Inn feels like a reassuring hug. This is a safe space. All are welcome here.

"It's the gay church, it's where people come to rejoice or where people come to mourn," says Kurt Kelly, who co-owns the Stonewall Inn with Lentz. "It's where lesbians, gay men, transgender, drag queens, straight allies — straight people if they want to come in — bears, leather...this is their home! It's a safe space for everyone. It's so globally known. I was just in Italy and one door that I saw had a picture of the Stonewall with a brick and a high heel [laughs]. That's how well-known it is!"

So what will be Stonewall's legacy 50 years from now? As the neighborhood institution still remains where it always has, the word "Stonewall" itself has become a signpost for the LGBTQ community across the globe. For Lentz, she believes the Greenwich Village bar will be remembered and looked to as an example for future generations of how to create an all-encompassing safe space.

"Stonewall itself is a global icon, a symbol across the globe, and that's what it needs to be," explains Lentz on the importance of the bar. "We want to make sure it stays a bar and a place for the community to gather, and that has to happen. Over our dead bodies will we let that go under, and I think the community is with us. Pride began and the activism started in a gay bar and gay bars are where our community has been born."

Philly ranks among the worst metro areas for air pollution

New York City and Philly are in the top 10 metro areas in the nation with the worst air pollution.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

According to a report by the American Lung Association, over 141.1 million Americans live in counties where there are unhealthy levels of air pollution. To put that number into perspective, more than 4 in every 10 Americans live in an area with unhealthy air quality.

It may come as no surprise that air pollution is a huge problem in California, whose cities are known for its smog. But the New York tri-state area is considered "industry heavy," which puts it smack dab in the middle of a pollution hot zone. A new report from 247wallst.com shows that both Philadelphia and New York City rank in the top 10 metro areas with the worst air pollution.

Philly ranks at 8, whereas the Big Apple takes the 3 spot on the list.

To identify the 25 most polluted U.S. cities, the group reviewed the metropolitan areas with the highest levels of ozone pollution, measured in days in a year when the concentration of ozone, or smog, exceeds the Environmental Protection Agency's standard from the American Lung Association's "State of the Air 2019" report. Air pollution can affect everyone from the healthiest athlete to the elderly. No one is spared from its detrimental effects. However, some folks are more susceptible to its effects than others, and according to sporetheair.com, those people include "individuals with heart disease, coronary artery disease or congestive heart failure, individuals with lung diseases such as asthma, emphysema or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), pregnant women, outdoor workers, older adults and the elderly, children under age 14 and athletes who exercise vigorously outdoors."

Some health risks of exposure to air pollution include cardiovascular and respiratory illness, lung damage, wheezing/coughing, chest pain, dry throat, headaches, nausea, irritation of eyes, nose, throat and more.

Although people may not be able to fully protect themselves from air pollution, the American Lung Association suggests a few simple ways to help protect yourself from unhealthy air: Check your air pollution forecasts, avoid exercising in a high traffic area, don't burn wood or trash and use public transportation.

West Point cadet killed when military vehicle flips

One cadet from the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, New York, died and 22 cadets and soldiers were injured on Thursday when a tactical vehicle carrying them flipped over during a training mission, officials said.

The accident occurred near Camp Natural Bridge, a summer training site for cadets, the academy said. Video from a news helicopter showed the vehicle overturned with its wheels up in a heavily wooded area.

Twenty cadets and two U.S. Army soldiers were injured, West Point said in a statement. The injuries ranged from a facial abrasion to a broken arm, said Col. Brett Venable, the commander of Keller Army Community Hospital.

Officials did not say what caused the accident.

The two U.S. Army soldiers were operating the vehicle, taking the West Point cadets through mountainous terrain on the way to a training area, Williams said.

The soldiers were in a cab and the cadets, who are seniors due to graduate in 2020, were in the bed of the vehicle under a soft canopy, said Lt. Col. Christopher Ophardt, an Army spokesman.

Officials provided no details on the cadet who died.

"So sorry to hear about the terrible accident involving our GREAT West Point Cadets," President Donald Trump said on Twitter. "We mourn the loss of life and pray for the injured. God Bless them ALL!"

Gov. Andrew Cuomo issued a statement saying the accident "is made all the more heart-wrenching as we commemorate the 75th anniversary of D-Day today, a day where we remember those who gave their lives for our country."

Last year, 16 U.S. service members died in training accidents in non-hostile environments, while 15 died in hostile action, according to figures from the Pentagon.

D-Day vets who fought through 'fires of hell' honored

"France will never forget," French President Emmanuel Macron told vets at Thursday's ceremony.

France will never forget the sacrifice of the Allied troops who liberated it from Nazi Germany, President Emmanuel Macron said on Thursday, the 75th anniversary of the D-Day operation that helped bring World War II to an end.

President Donald Trump and British Prime Minister Theresa May joined Macron at separate ceremonies along a 50-mile stretch of Normandy coastline, where more than 150,000 soldiers landed on June 6, 1944, under a hail of German fire.

"We know what we owe to you, our veterans: our freedom. On behalf of my country, I want to say, 'Thank you,'" Macron told several dozen American D-Day combatants at a U.S. war cemetery overlooking Omaha Beach, one of five landing spots in Normandy.

"France will never forget."

Macron awarded the Legion d'honneur, France's highest award for merit, to five U.S. veterans and embraced each man warmly.

The Normandy landings were months in the planning and were kept secret from Hitler and his forces despite a huge trans-Atlantic mobilization of industry and manpower.

Under the cover of darkness, thousands of Allied paratroopers jumped behind Germany's coastal defenses. Then, as day broke, warships pounded German positions before hundreds of landing craft disgorged the infantry troops under a barrage of machine-gun fire and artillery.

Some veterans say the sea and sand turned red with blood during the operation. Dozens of U.S. rangers were felled by German machine-guns as they scaled the cliffs rising up from Omaha Beach to Colleville-sur-Mer, where the U.S. cemetery lies.

"You are among the very greatest Americans who will ever live," Trump said in his address, turning to the surviving veterans. "You are the pride of our nation, you are the glory of our republic and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

"These men moved through the fires of hell," he said. "They came here and saved freedom, and then they went home and showed us all what freedom is about."

People applauded as one of the veterans, 94-year-old Private Russell Pickett, rose shakily to his feet. "Tough guy," Trump said, before Macron helped lower Pickett back into his seat. REUTERS

The final leg of horse racing's Triple Crown takes place on Saturday.

The third and final jewel of the Triple Crown, the Grade I, $1.5 million Belmont Stakes, is set for this Saturday at Belmont Park (6:30 p.m., NBC). There will not be a 14th Triple Crown champion this year, but the "Run for the Carnations" could still carry weight toward this year's Eclipse Awards. A field of 10, including Preakness winner WAR OF WILL, will be put to the "Test of the Champion" going 1 1/2-miles on the main oval.

To bet on the Belmont, your best bet is to go to the top online horse racing site at NYRABets.com/MetroBet

Derby. SIR WINSTON offered little in the Blue Grass Stakes after being bothered a bit on the far turn, but he bounced back to take second in the Peter Pan Stakes over this course. Being by Breeders' Cup Classic winner Awesome Again out of an Afleet Alex (2005 Belmont Stakes winner) mare, it's a good bet that SIR WINSTON will appreciate the Belmont distance. Joel Rosario will get a leg-up on this WAR OF WILL stablemate.

#1 JOEVIA is worth considering for trifecta and superfecta players attempting to make a sizable score in the Belmont Stakes. JOEVIA is one of the few who might actually go looking for the lead in this spot. He was second in two lower-level stakes races earlier in the year before being DQ'd in the Wood Memorial for causing interference while attempting to make the lead from the far outside post. He recovered by taking Monmouth's Long Branch Stakes on May 12. Jose Lezcano has the call.

#10 TACITUS had a three-race win streak snapped in the Kentucky Derby when last seen. He encountered only brief trouble in the "Run for the Roses," checking behind a rival inside the opening furlong of the race. TACITUS was two-wide on the first turn, four-wide on the second turn, produced a rally a bit further out in the lane and showed his best kick as the wire approached to grab fourth (moved up to third after the DQ of Maximum Security). The Bill Mott trainee will have the advantage of extra rest over his chief competition, WAR OF WILL, in the Belmont Stakes. Based on pedigree, TACITUS should relish to the stretchout to 1 1/2-miles. As he did when winning the Tampa Bay Derby and

Wood Memorial, TACITUS should lay several lengths off the pace before making his move. Jose Ortiz maintains the assignment.

#9 WAR OF WILL had some highly-publicized trouble in the Kentucky Derby, checking sharply behind an errant Maximum Security on the far turn. He was a little chilly on the board at 6-1 in the Preakness Stakes, but it didn't matter as Tyler Gaffalione guided WAR OF WILL to a rail-skimming victory. His effort in the Preakness did not come from nowhere, as he hinted at serious talent when taking the LeComte and Risen Star Stakes at the Fair Grounds earlier this year. WAR OF WILL has more of a turf pedigree to him, but does get distance influence from both sides (by War Front out of a Sadler's Wells mare). However, TACITUS seems to have the higher ceiling in the speed figure department. Gaffalione will be aboard the Mark Casse trainee once more.

#7 SIR WINSTON is unlikely to get his first win on dirt in the Belmont Stakes but has a case for a small share. A two-time winner on synthetic dirt at Woodbine, he showed some late-running ability in spots on the Derby trail, gaining late in the Withers and Tampa Bay

War of Will emerged victorious at the Preakness Stakes last month.

Sports betting 101: How to bet on horse racing

A primer for playing the ponies.

MetroBet dives into the basics of betting on horse racing.

Betting on horse racing can be both fun and rewarding if you know what you're doing. For the beginner, the volume of available wagers can be intimidating. MetroBet will explain how some of the most popular wagers at the track work.

If you're ready to bet now, GREAT! Go to NYRABets.com/MetroBet and use promo code METROBET to get a $200 new member bonus! For the Belmont Stakes, NYRABets.com/MetroBet is also offering a $25 money back win bet!

Win/Place/Show
Win, Place and Show wagering is where most novice horseplayers start because these bets are very straightforward. A Win bet pays off when the horse you bet on finishes first. A Place bet covers you if your horse finishes first or second, though it will pay significantly less than a Win bet. A Show wager pays off if your selection runs first, second or third, but usually yields less than a Place bet. The typical minimum on Win/Place/Show wagers is $2.

Exacta

An Exacta wager requires the bettor to pick the top two finishers of a race in exact order. It frequently pays considerably more than just betting two horses to win and/or place while involving a little more risk. Exacta wagers can be "boxed," meaning your selections can come out in any order. You can box as many horses as you wish in an Exacta wager, though the cost will increase exponentially. For example:

$2 Exacta Box 1/2 = $4

$2 Exacta Box 1/2/3

= $12

$2 Exacta Box 1/2/3/4

= $24

If you like only one horse to win, you can do an Exacta part-wheel with that horse on top rather than the conventional Win bet in order to pursue a higher payoff. For example, a $2 Exacta part-wheel 1/2,3 would cost $4. The typical minimum on Exacta wagers is $1.

Trifecta

The Trifecta is like an Exacta wager, only it requires the bettor to pick the top three finishers of a race in exact order. Like the Exacta, a Trifecta can be boxed to increase coverage, as well as price.

$2 Trifecta Box 1/2/3

= $12

$2 Trifecta Box 1/2/3/4

= $48

$2 Trifecta Box

1/2/3/4/5 = $120

A five-horse box strategy is hardly optimal, so bettors can construct Trifectas in unique ways in order to emphasize how they believe the race will play out. For example, if the bettor believes only two horses can win but that there are three other horses that can finish either second or third, a Trifecta ticket can be built this way in order to reduce cost:

$2 Trifecta
1,2/1,2,3,4,5/1,2,3,4,5 = $64

TWEET OF THE DAY

Tim Wilkin
@tjwilkin

@markecasse on War of Will being the only horse to run in all 3 legs of the Triple Crown: "All I can tell you is I think he looks better right now and is happier than he was going into the Preakness. I have said all said all along that good horses win when everything is going perfect."

Superfecta

The Superfecta takes the Trifecta one step further, requiring bettors to pick the top four finishers in exact order. Superfectas can usually be played for as little as 10 cents, so a four-horse box could cost just $2.40. Of course, this wager is among the hardest to hit in horse racing.

Multi-race wagers

The Daily Double is the simplest of the multi-race wagers, requiring the bettor to pick the winner of two consecutive races. The Pick Three pays off if the bettor correctly identifies the winner of three straight races.

Best Bets

Phillies, NBA betting previews

Reds at Phillies

The Reds could pull off a minor upset at Citizens Bank Park on Friday as they visit the Phillies for the first of three games. Zach Eflin (5-5, 3.02 ERA) makes his first start since May 26 due to a 10-day stay on the IL for back stiffness. Phillies skipper Gabe Kapler may have to tap into his bullpen early rather than push Eflin too far, and that could lead to trouble. Philly's relief corps has pitched to a 5.63 ERA (20th) in its last seven games. Cincinnati first baseman Joey Votto has been on a tear, batting .409 in his last 10 contests; he must be dealt with carefully. Tyler Mahle (2-5, 4.26 ERA) is ninth in the National League in SO/BB ratio at 4.79. He typically goes only five or six innings in his starts, but the Reds' relievers are hot at the moment, pitching to a 1.93 ERA in their last seven games.

The play: Reds moneyline

Raptors at Warriors
Moneyline: Raptors +195, Warriors -225
Betting Total: 215.5 points

A 47-point performance by Stephen Curry wasn't enough for the Warriors to overcome the absence of Kevin Durant and Klay Thompson against the Raptors, as they dropped Game 3 at home 123-109. The venue stays the same for Game 4, and the injury questions for the defending champs remain.

It was a total team effort for Toronto, even though Kawhi Leonard once again led the Raptors in scoring with 30 points. Kyle Lowry had 23, Pascal Siakam had 18 and Marc Gasol added 17. As a team, Toronto shot 14-for-25 (56 percent) from beyond the arc. Warriors head coach Steve Kerr has indicated that Thompson will suit up for Game 4, but Durant's status is still up in the air. Curry can't win games on his own, so take the points with the Raptors.

2019 FIFA Women's World Cup preview

The United States will begin its quest for a fourth Women's World Cup next week.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Whoever says that soccer isn't an American sport clearly doesn't pay close enough attention.

The United States Women's National Team (USWNT) heads into the 2019 FIFA Women's World Cup in France — which begins on Friday — with lofty expectations abound.

Headed by manager Jill Ellis, the Americans are the defending World Cup champions having captured their third title four years ago in Canada.

The dominant performance up north, which included a Carli Lloyd hat-trick in a 5-2 victory over Japan in the final, ended a 16-year World Cup drought that began with the magical world champions nicknamed "The '99ers."

While the Americans are still the No. 1 ranked team in the world heading into this year's tournament, Ellis has brought a versatile and in some instances, unproven side to France.

The 23-woman roster is a blend of some of the biggest names in soccer, familiar veteran faces, and some newcomers who are ready to take the world by storm.

The United States won't start their tournament until Tuesday with an opening match against Thailand in Group F play, but a packed weekend of World Cup action awaits as the hosts France get the festivities underway against South Korea.

Be sure to follow Metro throughout the 2019 FIFA Women's World Cup as we bring you previews, recaps, and reactions from the biggest soccer event of the season.

For now, take a moment to meet the United States' roster, see who Metro predicts to win the title and find a preview of the first four groups that will be in action this weekend on PP. 20-21.
